SCUPPERNONG WINE. - The Scuppernong grape is familiar to all of us and is brought to our market in abundant supplies at this season, which is the period when our markets are profusely supplied with this delicious grape .it grows in wild luxuriance on the Pamlico and Albemarle Sounds, where it is to be found in its richest state of perfection. The first vice which was discovered by Europeans, is now said to be growing on Roanoke Island, yielding, as we read, its yearly crop as when first discovered. Apart from popularity and superiority as a table luxury, which is a familiar fact to all of us. it is important for its espacity of yielding exacil at wine. The best cuppernong vintage is a superior light, wise, post pleasant and paintable, and a great favor ite. If it was a foreign importation, bottled and labled with gilt-paper, the cork covered with tin-fail, and in this attractive form the bottle placed upon the table from a wine cooler, with the bold assertion it was a late importation from the banks of the Rhine, its qualities would no doubt be enhanched in the estimation of many whose judgment is perhaps based more upon outward appearance and high price. han upon the intrinsic ments of the article upon whose qualities they are called upon to decide. It is said by a writer, who has had come experience in the manufacture of the Scuppernone, that it is capable of yielding a parkling wine, retaining the flavor of the still wine, with all the covered effervescence of the genuine champagne-that it loses nothing in character by a comparison with the real article of champagne-and is far superior to the spurious compounds, for which comparatively enormous prices are paid, and which, besides, yield a head ache the next morning, after the so desirable. - Norfolk Day Book.

The platform adopted reaffirms the principles of the Philadelphia convention, of the 14th of August; regards the Southern States as fully restored to the Union and the people entitled to all the rights and privileges of civizenship; affirms that the central zation of powe in this State, no less than in the Union, is far at to the harmony of our political system and dangerouto the liverty of the citizens, and that the recent legislation at Albany and Washing on is unprecedented for extravarance in expenditure, &c. Hon Jnc. L. Hoffman, of New York, was nominated by accamation for Governor. Hon Robt H Pruyo, of Albany, was nominated for Lieutenant Governor.

Among the pretty things in jewelry in Paris, are small humming birds, in inted for ornaments Small gold beaks are added to the birds, likewise pearl or ruby eves, and the bird is set in dear gold, chased more or less righly. Entire sets of these humming-bird ornaments-car rings, brooch, and comb are sold On the comb are avesmall heads, each with a gold beak. Eirrings are also made in chamel, to represent a diagon fly, the wings to ing diagered blue and gold; a peacock, represented in enamel, also makes a most dazzling mosif for both a comb and a brooch. But the most original ear-ringwhich have come under notice are banners of thy blue and white enamel, studged with very small brilliants, and fringed with gold.

The late summer was marked by an extraordieary "heated term," in which the thermometer played unusual freaks. These, how ever, were but interruptions and exceptions to the general fact, that the snamer has been a old one. In a letter on the protable cotton top for the year, Gov. Pickens of South Carolina says:" I think no year has ever passed the fourth of June without a single hot right, this has done." The cold which marked the close of summer as well as its opening, has considerably curtailed the corn crop in Northern Virginia, by interfering with the "filling" of the ears. The crop is nevertheless very fine in all that region.
